Religious Remarkables A Place For God

"Mind the things that are above, not the things that are on earth," St. Paul admonishes. His words are a reminder that men should cultivate the ability to detach themselves from worldly affairs, to meditate upon the truth that life here is not an end in itself, but a period of preparation for the life to come.

We respect the man who puts his heart and soul into his work, but if concern over worldly success causes him to overlook his spiritual destiny, to turn his mind from God, our respect must give way to pity. St. Paul warns that "the time is short." Life is always too short if human affairs preempt so much time and attention that we forget the things of the spirit. God demands that we give Him a reasonable share of our living.

How often do we read that some great leader in industry, commerce, or government has died in the midst of his duties that put too heavy a strain on his physical and mental capacities. Did success on earth mean so much that he was willing to risk his chances of heaven by neglecting God? Did God have any place at all in his daily agenda? These are solemn and arresting questions. They are questions we should occasionally ask ourselves.

God gives us complete freedom in arranging our schedule of work or pleasure. But he insists that no life, however crowded or busy, may exclude Him completely without inviting ultimate disaster.

The spiritually wise are those who remember to take time to pray, to meditate upon His teachings, to perform works to His honor. The foolish, on the other hand, are those who elect to exclude His vision from their lives, to drown out the warning cry of Scripture: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his own soul?"

One reported product of the recent Quebec conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill was virtual agreement on postwar occupation and control of Germany. As shown on the map above, the reported plan is to divide Germany into three parts, each allocated to one of the United Nations' Big Three. The United States would run things in Baden, Wurttemberg, Bavaria and other territories in the south. Everything east of the Lubeck-Elbe River line would be under Soviet supervision, while Great Britain would take the northern provinces west of the Lubeck-Elbe line to the Netherlands border. Each area would be under a commissioner responsible to his own government, the three forming a German commission to co-ordinate general occupation policy. Under the Allies' Moscow declaration last December, Austria was promised independence, and it is likely that the U.S., Britain and the USSR will have representatives on an administrative Austrian Commission.

Taking a Leaf From Nazis' Book

By their sensational breakthrough near Sedan, Germans in 1940 demonstrated to the world the uselessness of "wall" fortifications such as France's vaunted Maginot Line. They simply flanked it with an end run and poured down behind the line, leaving the French looking pretty silly, with their big guns all pointed the wrong way. Only ones who didn't seem to learn the lesson were the Germans themselves, who put their faith in the Siegfried Line and the Rhine fortifications, only to have the Allies flank them near Kleve, and get into position for an end run drive behind the fortified lines into the great Ruhr Valley industrial area. Map above shows similarity of German operation against Maginot Line and how Allies worked same trick on them.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS ... well fed. We've got to keep them supplied

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?" "Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day.

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the next War. Loan drive over the top, Jim.

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."
